

SAFER SCHOOLS AND CAMPUSES BEST PRACTICES CLEARINGHOUSE

- Lessons from the Field -

Expanding School-Health Center Partnerships

---

Wednesday, March 30, 2022 | 3:00 – 4:30 PM ET
SPEAKER BIOS

---

Jennifer Joseph

Director, Office of Policy and Program Development, Bureau of Primary Health Care, HRSA

Dr. Jennifer Joseph is Director of the Office of Policy and Program Development in the Health Resources and Services Administration's Bureau of Primary Health Care (BPHC). Dr. Joseph provides leadership and oversight of the strategic development and expansion of access to primary care services, Health Center Program policy, and BPHC capital and loan guarantee programs. She is also responsible for consultation and coordination within HHS and with other federal agencies, State and local governments, and other public and private organizations on issues affecting BPHC programs and policies.

Andrea Shore

Chief Program Officer, School-Based Health Alliance (SBHA)

Ms. Andrea Shore, MPH, is Chief Program Officer for the School-Based Health Alliance. She has worked in the public health field since 1997, leading child and adolescent health and youth development programs, many of which focused on the intersection of health and education. Her professional experience spans the local and national levels, leading teams in designing, implementing, and improving health programs for children and youth. Ms. Shore joined SBHA in 2015, where she currently leads programs and consulting teams, telehealth work, and the development of new partnerships.

Tammy Greenwell

Chief Operations Officer, Blue Ridge Community Health Services, Inc. (NC)

Ms. Tammy Greenwell is Chief Operations Officer for Blue Ridge Health, a non-profit federally qualified health center. In this position, Greenwell provides operational management of over 30 practice sites, with services in primary medical care, women's health services, obstetrics, pediatrics, pediatric neurology, dental, pharmacy, behavioral health and psychiatry, MSAW outreach, homeless street outreach, and nutrition services that prioritize community-focused healthcare in western North Carolina. Additionally, Greenwell oversees the BRH school-based health services program which includes 20+ SBHC sites and telehealth services. She serves on the North Carolina School Based Health Alliance Board of Directors and provides consulting services for SBHC start up programs. Ms. Greenwell holds degrees in Master of Public Health, Administration and Bachelor of Science, Nursing. She is credentialed as a Certified Professional in Healthcare Quality and a Certified Medical Practice Executive.

Matt Gruebmeier

Director of Student Services for Henderson County Public Schools (NC)

Mr. Matt Gruebmeier is Director of Student Services for Henderson County Public Schools in Hendersonville, North Carolina. An educator for almost 30 years, Mr. Gruebmeier has been a district administrator, a high school principal, a middle school assistant principal, a high school social studies teacher, and a soccer coach. While the roles Mr. Gruebmeier has played in schools have changed over the years, he remains committed to the same ideas that shaped his early years in the classroom: relationships come first, students learn best when they are happy and healthy, and schools who first try to understand children and families produce the most and best prepared graduates. Mr. Gruebmeier holds a business degree from UNC-Chapel Hill and a master's degree in Educational Leadership from Western Carolina University.

Jessica McColley

Chief Medical Officer, Cabin Creek Health Center, Inc. (WV)

Dr. Jessica Marie McColley, DO is Chief Medical Officer for Cabin Creek Health System in Kanawha County, WV and remains in clinical practice at a dual School-Based and Community Health Center at Riverside High School. She has presented nationally, regionally, and locally on various topics including integrated primary care practices, family planning services as harm reduction in the substance use disorder population of health, and trans-medicine. Dr. McColley is passionate about providing and advocating for evidence-based health care for every human but especially so for children, adolescents, and our LGBTQ+ community members.